2.3. Brief on Geology:

The Krishna-Godavari basin is a peri-cratonic basin with areal extent of approximately 45,000 km<sup>2</sup> (both onshore & offshore), located in the central part of the eastern passive continental margin of India. However, the basin extends into deeper water and covers a much larger area. Krishna and Godavari are the two major river systems, which drain the area and discharge in the Bay of Bengal and covers the deltaic and inter-deltaic areas of Krishna and Godavari rivers and extends into the offshore. This stretch of sedimentary tract contains a vast range of geologic settings, such as costal basin, delta, shelf-slope apron, deep-sea channel, and deep water fan complex.

Exploratory drilling of more than 350 wells in more than 160 structures has resulted in the discovery of 42 oil and gas bearing structures. Good source rocks are known from sequences ranging in age from Permian-Carboniferous to early Miocene. Because the reservoir sand bodies have limited lateral variation, understanding the stratigraphy and depositional sub environments in different sequences is essential to decipher the favourable locales for reservoir sands. Tilted fault blocks, growth faults, and related rollover anticlines provide the structural traps. Commercial accumulation of hydrocarbons occurs in sediments from the Permian to as young as the Pliocene. Estimated resources in the basin are around 2000 million tons of oil and oil-equivalent gas. The reservoirs are in sediments of all ages, Permian to Pliocene.
